

Glowing Faces

A man in a long black coat walks through the night and would hardly be seen as it is a dark night if it weren't for his using the light of his mobile phone to find his way in the darkness and if it weren't for his face glowing

From time to time somebody comes towards him looks at him trustingly or askew or hauntedly or plainly looks away

At one time somebody comes towards him and says «your face is glowing»

The man switches the mobile phone off pockets it has his hands free holds them in front of his face and sees his hands in the light of his face «my face is glowing»

The man walks through the night his hands buried in the long black coat uses the light of his face to find his way in the darkness

At one time a cow and a child come towards him

Their faces are glowing

From afar he sees them in the light of their faces coming towards him and calls out «your faces are glowing»

As the cow snorts strongly and her strong and portly head starts to sway she seems to set her surroundings lit by the light of her face into a swaying motion

The child addresses the man «our faces are glowing and when somebody comes towards us we are looked at and asked about it may we not come along with you and the three of us walk through the night»

The man «come along we will find our way somehow»

The cow the child and the man in the black coat walk the three of them in the light of their faces through the darkness familiarising themselves with their faces glowing and getting used to it
